1. Presentation of the subject

Marketing is a way of thinking about business. The success of an organization depends on the success of its marketing activities. The role of Marketing management in organizations is: to identify and measure the needs and wants of consumers, to determine the targets the business can serve, to decide on the appropriate products and services to serve these markets, and to determine the optimal pricing, promotion and distribution strategies to be implemented.

In this course we will focus on the analysis of the different marketing tools that firms use to develop, promote, and distribute products and services to the targeted markets.

4. Assessment

There will be a final exam that will give you an opportunity to apply knowledge obtained during the course. The final exam will total 60% of the final grade. The evaluation of the practical sessions will be the remaining 40 % of the course evaluation.

To pass the course, it is a requirement to pass the final exam. If the exam grading is higher or equal than 4.0/10, the final grade for the course will be the weighted average between the seminar evaluation (40%) and the exam evaluation (60%). However, if the exam grading is lower than 4.0/10, the final evaluation for the course will be the one obtained in the exam.

For the students that do not pass the course, there will be a second exam scheduled during the first two weeks of the second term. The rules will be the same: Pass the exam with a minimum of 4.0/10 will be required to pass the course. If so, the exam will total 60% of the evaluation, and the seminar evaluation from the term will total the remaining 40%. Only those students who took the exam at the end of the term and failed the course will be allowed to take the second exam.

Articles, cases, and readings posted in “Aula Global” one week before the assigned day for discussion

Powerpoint slides posted in “Aula Global” the day before every theory session.

6. Methodology

There will be a total of twenty 90-minute session of theory. Students should read the related textbook chapters in advance.

The theoretical sessions will complement with six seminar sessions. The seminar sessions will be structured for discussion and presentations of cases that will be solved in groups of 5 students. All the groups will have to write a one-page written report answering the questions proposed for each and every case. The report will be given to the professor at the beginning of the seminar session. Besides, each group will make a 20-minute presentation of one of the cases. At the end of each presentation, the teacher will motivate and propose discussion and analysis of the related concepts and strategies. The evaluation of the seminars will be based on individual participation (40%), case presentation (40%), and written reports (20%).
